

LATEST NEWS HEADLINES

Condemnation of police raid on Fiji Television

more stories »

HELP

TELEVISION

NEWS

LEARN ENGLISH

ABOUT

TUNING IN

An Australian memorial to Vietnamese boatpeople

21/06/2008 12:14:19 AEDT

Australia's first memorial to commemorate the Vietnamese refugees who came to Australia after the defeat of the United States and the South Vietnamese government is due to be unveiled

Many refugees, known as boat people, escaped from Vietnam's communist victors in all sorts of ships and boats to try to sail to freedom.

Some of the survivors settled in the Melbourne suburb of Footscray where the new monument commemorates the thousands who died during the journey and honours Australians who helped resettle boat people.

The state of Victoria's Acting Premier, Rob Hulls says it's an inspirational memorial.

"It's a monument that's really a symbol that will continue to preserve and promote the Vietnamese boat people's heritage and culture for generations to come."

He says, "It's a boat design, it's very clever and emotional really and the message is simple: as human beings we are all in the same boat."

Produced by Radio Australia and Australia Network

Australia In Depth

Country Profile

Country Map

In Focus: Apology to Australia's Aborigines

Watch & Listen: Australian PM Minister apologises to Aborigines

Gallery: Australia list remembers celebrates

In Profile: Food price c

more news indepth »

Latest Viewpoints

Australia's foreign affairs » 07/02/2008

The Suharto era: an Australian perspective » Former Australian Foreign Minister Alexander Downer - 28/01/2008

Related Stories

Australia's intervention policy marks a year »

Australian charities want a review of refugee policy »

Australia defeats Iran in Basketball »

News Links

Browse useful sites »

LOW GRAPHICS VERSION

HOME CONTACT US SITE MAP LEGALS NEWS SOURCES © ABC 2007